

ULTATEL's New Video Conferencing Solution, Podcast

May 21, 2021

ULTATEL recently upgraded its entire product lineup with free and unlimited video conferencing to enhance collaboration and increase productivity for organizations. ULTATEL's new video conferencing solution is transforming workforce environments as companies acclimate to a hybrid in-office/virtual model. ULTATEL's innovative communications architecture delivers HD video quality that seamlessly integrates with existing applications for team messaging, contact, file sharing, and calendar management.

In this podcast, ULTATEL Founder and Chief Executive Officer Amr Ibrahim will highlight how ULTATEL is empowering organizations to innovate from anywhere by maximizing the company's business communications for their remote teams. He'll emphasize how ULTATEL is providing customers with the highest quality product, the most features, lowest price, be more productive and grow wildly. As companies are embracing the hybrid model and using telecom to communicate with team members and clients, video conferencing is an essential asset to any organization in order to seamlessly collaborate. With video conferencing now available on all of ULTATEL's products, employees may not all be in the same place, but they can work closer than ever before with ULTATEL's new video conferencing technology.

For more information, visit <https://www.ultatel.com>.